Local and Personal

A. C. Keesling and F. S. Newcomb spent last week at the coast.

Mrs. Jas. Nicol of Vacaville was the guest of Mrs. J. J. Pardee last week.

Miss Marion Duncan is taking her turn with mumps which is going the rounds of that family.

Mrs. Ma-d Clark Glasson will speak at the Home and School Club next Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Greene went to Morgan Hill Wednesday for a few days visit with their son.

Miss Dorothea Smith went to Los Angeles Monday to spend a short time with her sister, Mrs. Spaulding.

Mrs. E. S. Schuyler of Berkeley is visiting her son, Geo. H. Schuyler, and family, expecting to remain for some time.

Misses Stella and Doris Leviston came from San Francisco last week to spend the month with Uncle and Aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Phelps.

Born—July 26 to Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Greenly of Honolulu, a son, Maurice Gaylord, Jr. Mrs. Greenly was formerly Miss Helen Hoag of Campbell.

Miss Margaret Palmer of the Art School of Berkeley, a room-mate of Miss Gladys Bean while at University, was the guest of Mrs. H. P. Bean last week.

Gilmore Duncan and Will Lloyd, our newly liberated marines, having recovered from the first shots fired into them, were enjoying a short visit with their families Sunday.

Mrs. G. E. Atkinson and children motored from Martinez Saturday for the week-end with relatives and friends. They took Calista home with them to prepare for school.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bohnett started their homeward flight early Tuesday morning planning to go via Chico and visit Prof. and Mrs. E. A. Powers. They spent part of last week at Santa Cruz doing the "sands."

Karl Bohnett, Ralph Gardner, Edgar Kennedy, and Chas. Hancock of Uncle Sam's seamen were home for over Sunday, lending quite a seaport air to our village. The boys are all looking fine and speak well of their quarters and duties.

Sights Interesting

The following interesting descriptions were taken from letters written by the Misses Palmer who lived here for several years on Virginia Avenue. Some vivid details of camouflaged ships could not be put into print.

Coronado, August 1, 1918.

Dear Friend,

I wish I could paint you the picture we see from our front porch. In the immediate foreground is the boulevard, then a short strip of land and beach between us and the bay. — The bay is full of interesting craft of all kinds. The battleship Oregon is just opposite us. At 8 o'clock each morning the band plays "The Star Spangled Banner." The ship is so near that we can see the sailors plainly and hear their voices. This bay is the battleship's base. Yesterday a number of boats came in. One was a large gray vessel, showing it is military in service. We heard that it is the coast patrol. Then four little gray vessels bearing the letters, S. C., on their bows, and numbered —, said to be submarine chasers. — There are funny little boats dashing thru the water, carrying messages from the training school on North Island.

It surely is wonderful to see an aeroplane turn a back somersault directly overhead. And after that I have seen them roll over like a dog, and then fly off to North Island, where the aviation school is. We thought it wonderful to see from 8 to 11 flying in different parts of the sky at one time, but the latest is a squadron of nine, flying in formation.

Sometimes they are in one long line, again they are in the form of an immense V, like a flock of geese, and again they are in groups of threes.

Besides there are the hydroplanes, and when flying with a great whirling noise, suddenly the airman will shut off his engine, and volplane in a dip toward the water. — Sometimes he goes a long way on the water, running up on the beach, or rising lightly in the air, is off like a bird. A young man in the radio service, who goes up, tho not a pilot, says it is a simple matter to fly, but a difficult one to land.

Lack of space prevents printing much else of interest and beautiful descriptions.

Campbell's "Y. M." Man Writes Home

Dear Ones at Home:

Life on the great deep has its ups and downs! So far I've been a good sailor beyond my expectations: I've missed one meal and lost none! I felt squeamish more or less for the first three days. The sea was rough. Then we had a day of smooth waters. Since it has been rough again; but it seems not to trouble me. I'll be glad, however, to set my feet on solid soil again when we reach it—as we hope to do early next week.

Yesterday was the glorious Fourth. It was a unique day in my experience. We celebrated in the ways open to us, and it is surprising now many things were found. Games among the soldiers, boxing, pillow fights, etc. The Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other units got together and raised a good sum of money and bought oranges and apples, chocolate, etc., for the soldiers.

Last Sunday and Wednesday some of our men held services for the men. I was asked to have part in one of the services. Next Sunday morning I am to address the soldiers at 10:30.

We are kept busy with lectures, French lessons, etc., during mornings. The afternoons are free for rest, reading, exercise and games and visits with the soldiers. The soldiers, mostly, think highly of the Y. M. C. A. Some came on board with a feeling against the organization, but our treatment of them is having its effect. Over there they will see more.

Last evening Dr. Schuman, President of Cornell University (one of our Y. M. C. A. men) gave a very fine patriotic address. He spoke in the morning to the soldiers.

Our table fare is oppressively good. It tempts us to eat too plentifully—the exercise is not equal to it. But we are learning to have a care. July 9th.—We are at the entrance to an English port. Our voyage has been all that one could wish. Everything that could be done for our comfort and safety has been done.

I am well and happy—and forward-looking.

Lovingly

WILL E. ECKLES.

Somewhere in England, July 12th and 13th, 1918.

Dear Home Folks—

I am sitting in my room, enjoying a bit of quiet. Have just had a fine nap after a busy morning and early afternoon. It is now 5 o'clock and almost dinner time. I am getting no time to look up people whose addresses were given me. Hope I shall be more successful in France in that regard.

I find there is another Eckles among the men going over with us, but have not seen him. He was looking for me. Do not know where he hails from.

I am in love with England. It is so beautiful and her people treat us handsomely. At every turn I come upon something that has become more or less familiar to me from word or pen. I am sorry I cannot tell you by name the places I have visited so that our good English friends there might tell you more of them.

So far my experiences have far out run my expectations—more wonderful and more satisfying. I count it more and more a privilege to have a part in this fight for liberty and righteousness. I heard a speaker say this. "I once visited a school room where as I entered I read, 'Opportunity' and on the inside of the door was 'Responsibility.'" So we, looking at our task from the other side, saw Opportunity, on this side, Responsibility.

WILL E. ECKLES.

Stamp Drive On

The Campbell War Work Council, the members of which have been enjoying a period of rest following the strenuous efforts of former drives, was suddenly galvanized into activity again by a call of the chairman, J. C. Ainsley, to a meeting at the bank Monday evening to organize another drive for War Savings Stamps. Campbell district is already proportionately ahead of the county as a whole, due in large measure to the splendid limit club of 25 members. In addition Stamps have been sold or pledged for over $10,000.

The proposition now is to boost the amount to $50,000 by Monday night, leaving the balance of the quota for a later date.

B. O. Curry has been elected director of the drive. He and Chairman Ainsley conferred with the women's army at the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon. Cards from the previous campaign were carefully gone over and some who had only a few and could seem to buy more are to be urged to place a fair share of their savings with Uncle Sam.

To enlist the cannery workers and others, the council arranged for a meeting Wednesday noon. The Rev. W. L. Stidger, who has recently returned from

UTILIZE THE GARBAGE

Food Administration Says Big Saving Can Be Made.

Housekeepers Urged to Keep Kitchen and Table Refuse Separate From Other Waste.

Washington.—A campaign for the utilization of garbage has been inaugurated by the United States food administration, which is advising all state administrators to spread garbage utilization propaganda through their territory and urge upon housekeepers the necessity for keeping garbage (kitchen and table refuse) in a separate container from other house refuse.

Figures and statistics issued by the food administration show that in one ton of garbage there is sufficient glycerin to make the explosive charge for 14 75-millimeter shells, enough "fatty acid" to manufacture 75 pounds of soap, fertilizer elements to grow eight bushels of wheat and a score of other valuable materials essential in the manufacture of munitions.

It is also pointed out that 24 cities of over 100,000 are not utilizing garbage and that the combined population, which is estimated to be over 5,000,000, is wasting 4,400,000 pounds of nitroglycerin and 40,000,000 12-ounce cakes of soap besides 60,000 tons of tankage, which contains fertilizer elements sufficient to produce a 3,000,000 bushel wheat crop. The value of this loss of materials is estimated at $5,000,000.

In 29 cities where there are garbage utilization plants the figures show that a combined population of 18,000,000 people are utilizing these products, to the value of over $11,000,000 annually, and that a large percentage of this saving is being directly used by the government in munition making.

But in these 29 cities, or most of them, large amounts of garbage are destroyed by burning or made useless by being mixed with other wastes.

If in these 29 cities the garbage was "kept clean" or free from bottles, tin cans, crockery and other foreign matter, the saving to the government would be many million dollars more. The responsibility devolves upon the shoulders of the housewife, who is urged to see that nothing but garbage goes into the garbage pail. Other house refuse has a value but its value is lost and the value of the garbage is lost if refuse and garbage are mixed.

FISTS WILL FIGHT HUN MAILED FIST

RED CROSS FEEDS ALSATIANS

Three Thousand Who Escaped in First Weeks of War Are Being Cared For.

Washington.—Three thousand loyal Alsations who escaped across the frontier in the first weeks of the war when the battle line swayed back and forth across southern Alsace, are now being fed with American food. They are quartered in nineteen villages safe on the French side of the war zone where American troops are now stationed.

They lost all their property three years ago and what little money they had was soon exhausted. With the increasing cost of living and the inability of their French neighbors to continue to help them, their situation became desperate. In answer to the appeal from French societies interested in them, the American Red Cross has just shipped food to the nineteen villages to provide half the daily rations of these 3,000 Alsations for ten months.

The shipment included 13,200 pounds of condensed milk, 13,200 pounds of flour, 1,100 pounds of sugar, 6,000 pounds of dried peas, 2,200 pounds of rice and 3,200 pounds of tinned meat.

BRYAN AND DEWEY ENLIST

John Hopkins Also Recently Joined United States Marines at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo.—William Jennings Bryan, George Dewey and John Hopkins recently joined the United States Marine corps here. Lieutenant Hornbetsel, in charge, says he is now looking for Woodrow Wilson to enlist.

Dewey hails from Niobrara, Neb., and his actions were prompted by a marine poster on which Admiral Dewey told of what he thought of the Marine corps.

Hopkins claims no relation to the famous man for whom the famous medical college and hospital were named. He explained his action by merely saying: "I can fight and I want to."

The Hidden Treasure

By PHYLLIS M. ABBOTT (Age Fifteen Years)

Once upon a time, many, many years ago, there lived in the palace of Jupiter a beautiful goddess whose name was Mercl. Every evening as the sun went down, Mercl would go to the walls of the sky city to look down to the world below. She loved the earth people and watched over them.

One day, as Mercl watched over the wall, she saw great excitement in one city; men were polishing long bright pieces of metal that shone in the sun. In a neighboring city men were marching out of the gates with a great banner at their head. Mercl was puzzled. She had never seen anything like this before, and because she was immortal and knew nothing of the passions of men, she did not understand. Intently she watched as on the plain below two great bodies of men came together with a clash and smote each other with those shining things they carried. Above, Mercl watched in amazement and sorrow. Oh! she must help those men who were suffering so.

Vivian A. Brown, Age Five Years.

What could she do? What was it they needed? She must find it! So she went to Jupiter and told him what was happening to the earth people, and asked him where she could find the thing that would help them. Wise old Jupiter only shook his head sadly and replied:

"Mercl, I cannot tell you where the treasure is that will help your earth children. Only you can find it."

Then Mercl wandered about the sky palace, asking everyone she met if they knew where the treasure was, but no one knew. She searched the treasure houses in vain, but the wise men could not tell her where it could be found.

At last she went back to the walls of the city, and as she stood looking down on her suffering earth people she exclaimed:

"Oh! where is the hidden treasure? What can I do for the earth people?"

Suddenly, forgetting her helplessness, forgetting the treasure she sought, forgetting herself, she flew down into the planet below. She gave the dying water and bound up the wounds of the injured, giving help and bringing back happiness to the hearts of the men she loved. Then, just at the end of the day, as the men watched her standing on the blood-red battlefield, she vanished and among the glorious colors of the sunset a tiny scarlet cross appeared; Mercl had found the hidden treasure in her own heart. And all those who wear that scarlet cross and carry it in their hearts have found a precious treasure, the Spirit of Mercy.

Find Markets for Canned Goods

By the U. S. Department of Agriculture

Housewives and members of canning clubs are urged to study their market at the beginning of the season and pack according to the local demands for different products. They are advised by the bureau of markets of the department to secure orders for canned goods before putting them up.

Small lots of nonstandardized products are difficult to sell except among local buyers and are not purchased by the army, navy, commercial dealers or any department of the government.

Many appeals to the department of agriculture to find a market for home-canned goods have been made during the past year and often the canners believed that the government was in the market for such goods. Subject to whatever regulations may be made by the federal government, the marketing of food products will proceed in the usual manner and the bureau of markets points out that proper grading, standardizing and careful preparation for market are especially necessary in handling canned goods, jams, jellies and preserves.

Home-canned products can be kept over from one season to the next and those who have not sold their goods have reserves to draw from for their home table. It is good policy, say the specialists, for the housewife to provide a reasonable surplus beyond the probable home consumption for the next crop year.

While the bureau of markets is giving aid to producers on marketing problems it says that it is difficult to place producers of small quantities of different kinds of products in touch with buyers and urges home and club canners to learn the marketing end of their business just the same as producers in other lines of industry.

Magazine Writer's Close-Up of Our General Pershing, as a Man and American Soldier.

What of General Pershing, who may one day have as great an army as any? The question is asked as often in Europe as in America. It is not, I think, known in America how deep a first impression his character as man and soldier have made on the British and, indeed, the French, writes W. Beach Thomas in Harper's Magazine.

When he landed in England in June, 1916, one of the British newspapers, whose correspondent had been for a long while in his presence, compared him with Moltke, who was "silent in seventeen languages." What General Pershing, the master of several Philippine dialects, said was little and good. When General Joffre shook his hand in Paris a few weeks later—a scene worthy of a great historical memorial—he said to one of his staff, "General Pershing will think first and act afterwards." At all junctures the general has been cool and prompt and determined. His colonel in Cuba wrote of him, "He is the bravest and coolest man under fire I ever saw in my life." His own recorded maxims are few; but at the most worrying crisis in France—when news of the arrival of American troops was published while some of those troops were still in the danger zone at sea—he said, "I do not worry, and when the day's work is over I go to sleep."

Notes of Interest.

In the schools of the Philippine Islands there are 11,000 native teachers and 500 American instructors.

Within the foreign concessions of Hankow there are 2,357 licensed jinrikshas, 67 public carriages, and 83 private motorcars.

The reason why opals are often lost from their settings is that they expand with heat more than any other precious stones, and consequently force open the gold which holds them in place, with the result that they ultimately fall out.

WOUNDED BOYS SHOW AMERICA'S SPIRIT IN WAR

Hope of New Chance Is the Dominant Note.

IN PAIN DO NOT MURMUR

Chief Interest Is in Outcome of Battle in Which They Were Hurt—Hospital Crowded With Men From All Sections Who Were Barring the Way to Paris When They Got Their Wounds—Tricks With Red Cross.

The minute I entered the long hospital corridor I was aware of a pair of eyes. They were wistful; they were searching. They wanted something.

This was one of our base hospitals, and I was there because it was crowded with wounded Americans, writes Mary Brush Williams in the Chicago Tribune. Our boys had smelled the smoke of battle and borne its wounds. Swathed in bandages, they crowded the wards whose swinging doors wafted the heavy odors of iodiform. Not nearly all of them could get into the rooms, and the overflow lined the corridors in a lane of cots stretched end to end.

Men from the Mississippi basin and the wheat fields of the Northwest, from California, New York and Kentucky filled that hospital, and it was no light skirmishing that had brought them there. They were barring the way to Paris when they got their wounds.

In a cot against an end wall sat a boy whose gaze fascinated me. One leg lay stiffly in a cast outside the bedclothes and one arm swung from a pulley. His pallid face was framed in strong, black hair that reached backward against the upright pillow. Only his eyes showed any animation, and, although we were fully a half-block apart, they reached out and spanned the distance, stretching an invisible bridge between him and me.

I said to myself he wanted something and that I would go and fetch it for him. I hurried as fast as I could, which wasn't very fast, because of the congestion of the corridor by blanketed men on stretchers who were being wheeled along the narrow path between the cots. Nurses hurried along with thermometers and Red Cross men with cups of gruel.

"There's a good deal of traffic along this boulevard," grinned a boy from behind a diagonal bandage with which they had bound his head.

Wants News of Regiment. All through my slow progress those eyes never left my face. They kept drawing and shortening the bridge between us. As I neared his bed in the last lap of that trip I pushed past a doctor and all but upset a cup of coffee on a chair beside a cot, so urgent seemed this one boy's need.

"Easy, lady!" He threw out his voice toward me. "Could you possibly tell me have they got any news of my regiment. Do you know whether they held?" He made no personal request.

As I was gasping to recover from the question so unforeseen another voice re-enforced him. It came from a man lying flat on his back in the next cot with his eyes bandaged over and his face wearing the withdrawn, unparticipative look of those who cannot see.

"What I want to know is, did they hold the railroad station in front of —?" That is the important question. If they did, we're all right, and those Boches could never get another foot nearer Paris along that front."

A boy on a neighboring cot made a gesture to indicate to me that this man's sight was forever gone. Only his upper forehead and his lower jaw were visible beyond the bandage, but they were set and square. "I wish I could get back at that, doggone it! I couldn't have stood it if those swine had got to Paris."

I later got his record. He was William Myers of Louisville and he traveled for his father, who is in the liquor business.

Foe Avoids Open Fight.

"I'm so interested in my regiment," said the blind boy. His neighbor beckoned to me and whispered that he never thought about anything else. He never talked about himself, nor made a personal request nor asked if his sight was gone forever. He wanted to know if his regiment had been relieved. A visitor had come and asked him if he wanted anything, and he asked her to please find out anything she could about his regiment. She read the papers of three consecutive days which mentioned them. Then all news ceased. But the blind boy's only comment was that they must have been relieved.

I was invited to sit down and the conversation became general.

"Those Boches can't fight in the open," said Frank Deuca, a boy from New York state, who had been shot in the lung. He panted a little as he talked. "This was an open scrap and I put four of them on the run with my bayonet. They can't stand the sight of a bayonet. Individually, they ain't so brave. It's that they're organized and go in great lots or else they stay in the woods or in the trenches and under cover, where they are dead safe. Then they're careful to pick you off."

"Oughtn't you stop talking?" A slight flush was mounting his cheek.

"Don't you want a drink of water?" His hand was over the sore spot in his lungs. "Are you in pain?"

"No. You know what those Boches do, don't you?" That is just about as much of the personal in conversation you will ever get out of any of them.

He continued with his narrative. "Of course you're not supposed to shoot when you see a Red Cross on a man's arm and he is bearing a stretcher. Well, we saw a lot of them one day and let up until all of a sudden it occurred to one of us that those stretchers had awful queer shapes. One of our boys just took the tip of his bayonet and flipped back the gray blanket covering it. There was a whole mountain of cartridges. We uncovered another and what do you think showed up? A machine gun!"

"Those were regular soldiers, but you ought to have seen them take to their heels in the scrap that followed. We used to say at home that my little sister would cry if you pointed your finger at her. Well, let me tell you, those Germans will fly if you point a bayonet at them. It was a machine gun that got me over in the woods under cover. We were going over the top."

No Need of Brandy There. "Did they give you brandy before you started?"

The boy's eyes opened in surprise. The Germans gave their men ether before they sent them out into the open.

"No. Americans don't seem to want anything. You don't feel afraid when the time comes. Americans haven't sense enough to be afraid," grinned a man who lay so flat and heavy and lifeless on his cot that he had not attracted attention before.

One of his companions whispered to me that this was Alva Ketchum of Tennessee, and that he was something of a hero.

"Where are you wounded?" I demanded.

"In the back," he answered. "I got the bayonet in the back. I was taken prisoner and I went along with them for a ways and then I figured it that I'd rather be dead than a prisoner to those people, so I started a scrap. I didn't have anything but my hands, but I knocked two of them down. Then the third stuck the bayonet into me." That was all he volunteered about himself.

John Maier was an engineer from Rochester, N. Y., who had fought out in the open and had gone over the top, he said, and it was very unusual that one in his branch of the service did so. He was complaining that he had never been in bed for a day before, and he simply could not stand it. His wound was in his arm.

"Oh, well," I said, "they'll let you be up in a day or two, and they will send you home presently. Your contribution to your country is made."

"Don't tell me a thing like that. At this time home would be a nice place for me!"

That is the spirit of all of them.

All Eager to Get Back.

Presently I moved to a different quarter in the corridor and a boy from South Dakota beckoned me. Confidentially, he was worried about his leg. He feared it would have to go, and if it did he would never reach the front again.

His neighbor wanted me to write a letter for him. His name was Mike Sullivan and he lived in Wyoming. He wanted his father and mother told that their letter to him had come, but he had not been able to read it because it was handed to him before daylight just previous to his starting for the attack, and just a little after daylight he was wounded and the letter got blotted with his blood.

But they were not to worry, for it was nothing and he would be back at work in a few days. Back at work meant his job in the trenches and not tending cattle in Wyoming.

SPY IS NEUTRAL; SELLS TO BOTH

IS CONVICTED WITH OTHERS

Berne.—A remarkable spying feat was executed by a Swiss citizen named Luginbuhl. He succeeded in getting paid from both sides, the French as well as the Germans, receiving profitable favors from both, and finally landed in the meshes of Swiss law. Luginbuhl was one of twenty-one defendants in a celebrated espionage case just concluded in a local court. With one exception all were found guilty, including Luginbuhl. Sentence was deferred.

Luginbuhl was anxious to buy wool waste in France. He wanted to sell it in Germany where he could get an immense price for it. To get the wool out of France Luginbuhl had to obtain permission from the French authorities. He got into touch with French agents and spies doing business in Switzerland, who afterward were his codefendants in the trial, and upon his promise that he would make a trip into Germany, find out certain things the French spies were anxious to know and report back, he would obtain permission to take the wool out of France.

Told Germans of Deal.

To sell the wool in Germany Luginbuhl made his trip into the kaiser's domain, as promised, but he did more than he had promised. He told German officials all about the deal he had made with the French spies, whereupon the Germans were kind enough to write a report which Luginbuhl took back to Switzerland and handed over to his French friends, who paid him $800 for it. Luginbuhl at that time already had in his pocket the handsome profit he had made on the sale of French wool in Germany. What the Germans had paid him for double-crossing the French was not disclosed during the trial.

It took eight days to try the case. Mourgeot, a French officer, was the principal defendant in absentia. He had escaped before he could be arrested. The judge in pronouncing the verdict of guilty said Mourgeot had broken the word of honor given by an officer when he escaped from a hospital. He was found guilty of having organized the French spy system in Switzerland. He hired German deserters to tell him all they knew. All this was, however, only a minor offense, according to Swiss law.

Had Many Activities.

His principal crime was treason committed against the Swiss republic. He observed the movement of Swiss troops near the French border and kept the French army command posted about them. He hired men to watch the transportation of cattle. He tried to poison cattle in railroad trains by putting poison in the cars. He organized a conspiracy to foment a strike in the aluminum works at Chippis, which were sending goods to Germany, and tried to destroy the electrical plant at Waidshut.

Three of his tools were Frenchmen, who also succeeded in eluding the Swiss law. It was discovered at the trial that these men made it their business to buy factories that were selling to Germany. They bought the factories with French money and made an immense profit for themselves by the transaction.

The most prominent of the Swiss defendants was Dr. Bruestlein, a lawyer. Revelations disclosing his activities created a sensation in all Switzerland. The court condemned him severely. Among the other defendants were a Swiss army sergeant and an army policeman. Both were found guilty of taking French money for furnishing information about army movements.

The whole of Switzerland seems to be a hotbed of spies. Espionage trials are going on almost continuously in many of the cities. Germans, Austrians and Italians are implicated as well as the Swiss themselves. The public is usually excluded from these trials because Switzerland wants to avoid as much as possible being drawn into the ramifications of spydom which might jeopardize the neutrality of the republic.

Woman Who Befriended Soldier Receives $10,000 Insurance When Man Is Killed.

Nevada, Mo.—Mrs. S. H. Mellet, owner of a small home bakery here, has received word from the war department she will receive $10,000 insurance on the life of Thomas H. Price, a soldier who recently died from the accidental discharge of a gun aboard a transport.

Price came here several years ago, ill and penniless. Mrs. Mellet took him to her home, nursed and cared for him until he was well, and then helped him secure a job. Assigning of his war risk insurance to her was the only way he could show his gratitude, he told her, just before leaving.

LAUGHING CHILDREN.
The blessed babes keep laughing through the crises grown-ups feel; The children go on playing, though earth's holocaust impend; They know no apprehensions touching future woe or weal, But take, each day, sans question, what their childhood gods may send.

And oh, how glad and grateful should we be that it is so!
How much we need their laughter and the frivolous of them!
With such to help we're leaving off the ceremonies of woe;
With them to cheer the aurgid flood of warfare we shall stem.

Give thanks then for the children and the surcease children bring.
We romp with them, then fearlessly we buckle to our task.
And when we win—as win we must if while we fight we sing—
God's blessing on the children who have saved us, we may ask.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.—Adv.

CALOMEL SELDOM SOLD HERE NOW

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has neglected a great failing off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.—Adv.

Bureau to Save Grain in Threshing

How $50,000,000 Worth of Wheat Alone May Be Conserved This Year By More Careful Methods

By ROBERT H. MOULTON.

The United States food administration grain corporation of New York estimates that approximately three bushels of grain are lost in every 100 bushels threshed, because of careless methods, and believes that this amount can be saved if every farmer in the country will follow certain simple rules which have been outlined. If this is done, and figuring on a basis of 800,000,000 bushels of wheat for this year's crop, which government reports indicate is exceedingly probable, it means that the staggering total of 24,000,000 bushels, worth, at $2.20 a bushel, the huge sum of $52,800,000 will be saved to this country. And this applies to wheat alone. The saving on oats and other small grains will be in proportion.

In order to impress upon the farmers the necessity of employing more careful methods in threshing, the food administration has just created a grain-threshing division, under the direction of Capt. Kenneth D. Hequem-bour, an active wheat producer of Oklahoma, and has entered upon a campaign which it is hoped will bring about the desired result. It is proposed to carry on educational work among farmers through the medium of threshing committees which will be established in each county. These committees will be composed of the county food administrator, county agricultural agent and a retired thresherman representing the local council of defense.

Threshing Scene in the Great Wheat Belt.

Agriculturists, threshing machine men and others with an intimate knowledge of threshing-machine operations, readily admit that there is a big waste in threshing operations, but ask how much of this waste can be saved, and in what manner it can be accomplished. In answer to this, the food administration grain corporation states that it believes 1% bushels in every 100 threshed can be saved by having all machines go into harvest in excellent repair, with ample power, and by seeing that during harvest they are sufficiently adjusted to meet varying conditions, so that a minimum of grain is blown into the straw pile; that one bushel in every 100 threshed can be saved by having all machines in such repair that very little grain leaks under and around them on to the ground, and if what does leak out in this manner, and is otherwise scattered about the machine, is cleaned and threshed before the machine leaves the field; that 3/4 bushel in every 100 threshed can be saved by careful handling of bundles from the shock to the machine or stack, and by arranging the bundle wagons so that all grain which scatters therein shall be caught and saved.

The percentage of wheat which has been lost in the past by being distributed upon the ground or into straw piles to be fed later to the animals on the farm is a very considerable one, and farmers as a rule have overlooked these leakages with the excuse that the stock would get the benefit when they were turned in. The food administration is particularly anxious to discourage this practice during the present year, when no wheat at all should be fed to animals. Many reports have already come in of straw piles appearing green with sprouted grain. In some sections of Kansas threshing outfits made it profitable practice last year to follow other threshing outfits, purchase the straw pile and rethresh. Instances of from 3 to 7 per cent saving of wheat by this rethreshing process have been common.

The importance of having all machinery in perfect shape for threshing cannot be overestimated. This includes keeping the threshing cylinder up to speed; keeping all teeth straight and sharp; seeing that the pulleys and belts are capable of delivering sufficient power, with a safe margin of excess, to keep the separator up to the required speed, under average operating conditions; making proper adjustment of concaves and other parts of the separator, and arranging that extra supplies and repair parts are on hand.

Infertile Eggs Keep Best

The greatest loss in preserved eggs comes from the fact that fertile eggs are preserved, according to C. S. Anderson of the Colorado Agricultural college. Fertile eggs will keep equally as well as infertile eggs, providing at no time they have been brought to a degree of heat where the germ starts to develop. In holding fertile eggs for preserving, they should not be allowed to get above 50 degrees Fahrenheit. During the early spring months this is easily done, but in warmer weather poultrymen should take the precaution and produce infertile eggs. Fertilization is not an incentive to egg production among domestic fowls, and the number of eggs produced will be in no way diminished.

The fertile eggs contain no germ to be developed, withstand more heat, are slow to decay, and can be preserved with the minimum amount of loss.

Raise Mint and Parsley.

Start a little mint in an out-of-the-way corner. It is very handy and will live on for year after year. You will find it a welcome addition to cocktails, to lemonade and to iced tea. Added to lemon ice, it both colors and flavors it. It also will furnish material for mint sauce to serve with lamb and mutton. Parsley, too, should be planted. You will find use for it every day for garnishing and also for flavoring soups and cottage cheese.

Yield of Tomatoes.

The average yield of tomatoes in the United States last year is placed at about four tons to the acre, according to Farm Life. Nearly 1,000,000 tons of tomatoes were "manufactured"—that is, canned and made into catsups, etc. Canneries are offering $15 to $18 the ton for tomatoes this season.

WHEN IT LOOKS DARK to any weak or ailing woman,

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to her help. For "female complaints," pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations, and all chronic weaknesses and derangements, this is the proven remedy. It's the only one so sure that it can be guaranteed. "Favorite Prescription" will benefit or cure, in the case of every tired and afflicted woman. An easily procured vegetable pill is made up of May-apple, the dried juice of the leaves of aloes, and the root of jalap, made into a tiny pellet and coated with sugar. It was first put into ready-to-use form by Dr. Pierce nearly 50 years ago. Almost every drug store in this country sells these vegetable pellets in vials for 5c—simply ask for Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They have Dr. R. V. Pierce stamp.—Adv.

A WHITE-THROAT SINGS.

From ancient Edens long forgot
He felt a breath of spring,
And in the leafless apple tree
He heard a white-throat sing.

With fluted triplets, clear and sweet,
He fluted proclaimed its joy,
And on the withered orchard grass
The man became a boy;

A boy that ran, a boy that dreamed,
In April sun and rain,
Who knew all good was happiness,
All evil only pain.

Sing on, O white-throat in the tree,
He does not hear you now!
The years are trampling on his heart
And armies o'er his brow.

From ancient Edens long forgot
No resurrection comes
Until the smallest sparrow's song
Is louder than the drums!

—Walter Prichard Eaton, in the June Atlantic.

Miss Agnes Howe Strong Candidate

The Campaign Committee for Miss Agnes E. Howe, Candidate for County Superintendent of Schools issued from headquarters in the Bank of San Jose Building the following statement showing reasons why she should be placed at the head of the schools of Santa Clara County:

(1) Miss Howe is a leader in education in California. She has been president of the State Teachers' association. She founded the California School Women's club. She has been an honored member of the State Council of Education.

(2) Miss Howe has scholarship. She is a graduate of Santa Clara county's great university. She also holds an advanced degree from the University of Wisconsin. In both of these universities she directed her attention to economic problems. Present school policy will determine how these problems will be solved in the future. Miss Howe is prepared to meet these issues.

Importance of Vote at the Primary Election

Sec. 23 of the Direct Primary Law states that where there is but one person to be elected to any non-partisan office the candidate who receives the majority at the primary is the only one to be voted for in November. That is, he is really elected at the primary. It is, therefore, important that voters go to the polls on August 27th and express their preferences. It will save expense of printing names on ballots and do away with manipulating politics at the last minute. The primary election is the poor man's safeguard and while our boys are fighting for liberty abroad we can help them by voting for liberty here.

EMILE FRITZ,
Candidate for Constable.

Ira Brown in France

Castels, Landes, July 4th—The day broke clear and bright. After a hearty breakfast of hotcakes and bacon, the American camp teemed with activity. All the boys were busy waxing their new mustaches, shaving, washing the mud from behind their ears, shining their boots and dolling up in fine shape.

At nine-fortyfive the Assembly Call sounded and the entire battalion fell in on the road. The band of the Fighting Sixth battalion fell in just behind the staff officers.

It was a beautiful sight to see our stalwart youths in battalion front. At ten o'clock the band counter-marched and halted in front of the headquarters office. Our new flag was unfurled and as the band played "La Marseillaise", the Stars and Stripes took its journey half way to the top of the 50 foot pole. Then, while the battalion stood at "right hand salute" the band burst into the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Old Glory" took her journey to the top of the pole amid the applause of our French friends.

After this impressive ceremony the band took its place immediately behind the staff officers and "la grande promenade" was started thru the streets of the city of Castels. The sidewalks were lined with cheering French men and women. The Stars and Stripes and Tricolor hung from the windows was truly a thrilling sight.

Immediately after the noon mess of beans the band rendered a concert. This was done to hold the crowd so that some Vin Rousche would be left in the city. At 2 o'clock all journeyed to the baseball diamond. Here we had the three-legged race, crab race, and various other stunts, followed by a very exciting baseball game. Needless to say the sidelines had many bright spots where a jolly Mademoiselle stood hanging on to the arm of an officer who understood a little "pigeon" French.

After the evening meal the gathering was favored with another band concert followed by the first and greatest minstrel show ever shown in the department of Landes. All of the jokes were good and each and every officer of the battalion learned what us bricks thot of him. Some of the jokes on the officers were really cruel and under ordinary circumstances would put the one who offered them in the guard house. However, it being Independence Day, it was a case of forgive and forget.

The galaday ended with all singing our national anthem. At 11 o'clock "lights" sounded and all took to the hay.

Mrs. Mae Beardsley went to Merced Wednesday to visit her recently arrived grand daughter at the Allen Beardsley home.

Misses Grace and Lois Bohnett spent last week at San Francisco doing the sights with Lieut. H. J. Scholz as "barker", guide and guard.

Miss Helen Moore of Santa Cruz and Leland Lancaster were married in the Surf City on August 2, and have gone to Cambria where Leland has resumed his school work.

Thompson-Maddox

A quiet wedding was solemnized in San Jose, Saturday evening at the family home in Curtiss avenue, when Miss Luella Thompson became the bride of Sergeant Earl Maddox of the 13th Infantry.

The nuptial bond was tied by the Rev. J. F. Ross, and was witnessed by only the members of the family and the immediate relatives, the bridal couple being accompanied by Miss Winnie Bibb, and Sergeant Joseph L. Seema.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralston Alison took them to San Francisco after the ceremony and brot them back Sunday evening for Mr. Maddox to report at Camp Fremont.

Mrs. Maddox will remain with her parents in San Jose, and her friends wish for her a happy future and the safe return of her husband, after the strife is over.

Stamp Sales Growing

In the present War Savings Stamp drive five new members have been added to the Limit Club. There were 22 members previously reported, so that as we go to press there are 27, the additional names being, Mrs. J. A. Green, Mrs. Bertha E. Day, Miss Emma Swope, W. T. Morton, and the J. C. Ainsley Pkg. Co.

In the drive of Wednesday and yesterday at the J. C. Ainsley and Geo. E. Hyde Canneries and Sun-Sweet plant, 175 subscribers pledged to purchase 569 stamps amounting to $2845 at maturity. This report is given with returns incomplete and the good work still in progress. Campbell sales today amount to $21,481.

The Campbell W. W. Council had the pleasure last evening of hearing and meeting, Mr. George Coupland, vice-chairman of Nebraska State Council of Defense and in charge of the Food Conservation of that state.

Mr. Coupland who is a brother of W. R. Coupland of Campbell is visiting here this week, and gave a very interesting talk on the war work campaigns in his state.

Irene and Anita Toles went to San Francisco Monday to visit their mother. Housewives may now obtain 25 lbs. of sugar for canning by securing a certificate signed by the local food administrator, Mrs. D. H. Cramer.

Word has been received by Mr. Wm. Carney that his son, Hugh, is among the missing on the western front. This is the first casualty to come home to our community and our sincere sympathy with that of the world goes out to those who mourn in our cause.

HON. HERBERT JONES, GRANT BENNETT and T. M. WRIGHT: Commonly Advertised as the Dry Candidates:

THE "DRY PARTY" of California, of which you are the recognized and self-announced exponents and candidates in the SENATORIAL and ASSEMBLY DISTRICTS of this County, have by petition, as announced by the Secretary of State, caused to be placed upon the ballot at the coming general election an

to be effective and in full force from and after December, 1918. IF SAID "BONE DRY" AMENDMENT BE REJECTED by the MAJORITY of the VOTERS of CALIFORNIA, voting thereon, thereby demonstrating the opposition of the majority of the people to ABSOLUTE "BONE DRY" LEGISLATION, WILL YOU ANNOUNCE NOW TO THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA whether if elected, YOU WILL STILL FAVOR AND VOTE FOR A NATIONAL "BONE DRY" AMENDMENT?

WE ANNOUNCE NOW that if said amendment is ratified and adopted by the voters of California, THAT WE WILL ADOPT THE WILL OF THE MAJORITY so expressed as our guide in Legislative action.
